BUCHANAN, MICH., May 22.
Gonorrhea Pure Food Co., La Roy, N. Y.

Gentlemen: My mamma has been a great coffee drinker and has found it very injurious. Having used several packages of your GRAIN-O, the drink that takes the place of coffee, she finds it much better for herself and for us children to drink. She has given up coffee drinking entirely. We have a package every coffee. I am ten years old.

Yours respectfully,
FANNIE WILLIAMS.

Washington County Court.

The session case of Morris McKinstry against O. R. Collins and H. L. Lovell commenced Monday afternoon, took the time of Washington County Court Tuesday. It will probably take all day Wednesday to complete taking evidence.

R. W. Taft of Burlington argued a motion on Tuesday for a continuance of two cases standing on the docket which are brought by creditors of Knott & Closson, the defendant, Burlington, against that firm. The motion was opposed by J. W. Gordon, counsel for plaintiffs. The court took the matter under advisement. Cases aggregating $10,000 are involved in these two cases. The plea for continuance was based on the fact that similar cases are in the hands of Judge Wheeler of the federal court, awaiting his decision on certain points.

What Shall We Have for Dessert?

This question arises in the family every day. Let us answer it today. Try Jell-O, a delicious and healthful dessert. Prepared in two minutes. No boiling! No baking! Add boiling water and set to cool. Flavors: Lemon, Orange, Raspberry and Strawberry. At your grocers, 10 cents.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Isaac Walk of St. Albans was run over by the south bound express Friday evening and later died from his injuries at the Heaton hospital.

The late was but thirteen years of age and was employed as a newsboy by Chisholm Brothers of St. Albans. He was making his usual run on the south bound train due at the Junction at 6 p. m.

The train had stopped in the bridge as usual that the switch might be set so as to draw up clear of the north bound train, the two meeting at the Junction. With his usual enterprise, the young lad left the train and ran on ahead in order to gain extra time in which to sell his papers to the crowd on the platform.

While the crossing ahead of the train when he went back in answer to a call from a lady who wished to purchase a paper. When the sale was made he turned to look at the engine, and by this time the train was under way and right upon him. The crowd on the platform saw the situation and were powerless to aid the lad although they sent out cries of warning. As the little fellow turned the steam chest on the engine struck him throwing him around and under the drivers which passed over both of his legs crushing the left one close to the body and mangle the right one and ankle.

The engineer stopped his train as quickly as possible and went back and picked up the mangled body and placed it upon a mail sack in the baggage car where Dr. C. F. Camp of Barre, who was on board, did all that could be done in the absence of appliances and conveniences to stop the flow of blood.

The piteous cries of the lad, who suffered excruciating pain, were heartrending, and many men and women were obliged to turn away. Roakes & Driscoll were notified to have their ambulance at the station here to convey the lad to the hospital, but the remains of the body were lost by the transferring of baggage and the shifting of cars before the final run was made to this city, the boy losing much blood but never losing consciousness.

He was taken to the hospital and Drs. Chandler, McGuire, Bisbee and Lindsay did everything possible to relieve his sufferings but death came about 10 p. m. The remains were taken to the undertaking rooms of Roakes & Driscoll where they were made ready for burial.

The lad's father, M. S. Walk of St. Albans, a peddler and reliable citizen, was notified and arrived on the midnight train. The boy's mother is dead. The remains will be taken to Burlington this evening for burial. The little fellow was popular with passengers and trainmen along his run and his sad fate will be greatly deplored by all who know him.

ISABELLE RELEASED

M. M. Isabelle of Concord, N. H., who was arrested for complicity in the crooked transactions of Mrs. Ella J. Bagley at Burlington, was released from custody on Friday. His case was to have been brought before the Chittenden county grand jury now in session, but the State Attorney was unable to find any incriminating evidence against Isabelle. Prior to his discharge, Henry Ballard, his counsel, received a letter from Concord, N. H., signed by the mayor of Concord, the secretary of State of New Hampshire, the labor commissioner, adjutant general, clerk of probate, lawyers, clergymen and druggists of Concord. It reads as follows: "We, the undersigned, have been acquainted with M. M. Isabelle for many years. He has always lived in Concord, N. H., and has borne a good reputation; has always been industrious and paid his bills, and we feel there must be some mistake with reference to his connection with the larceny of the bank book, as stated in the daily press. We trust that some satisfactory arrangement can be made whereby he can be released from his present trouble."

PLEASANT RECEPTION

The reception given by Mrs. O. H. Richardson and the local Women's Christian Temperance Union on Friday afternoon and evening in honor of Barre union was largely attended by interested friends. They were received by Mrs. O. H. Richardson, Mrs. G. B. Denny and Mrs. I. E. Reed. After a social hour lunch was served, followed by songs and responses. The Montpelier friends of E. N. Saneuary have been somewhat apprehensive for his safety since the Galveston disaster. Mr. Saneuary is employed on a government job at Sabine, a short distance from Sabine Pass. Several stops of some length were made on the way. The course was by the highway to Richmond, thence up the Winlock, a distance of some fifty miles or more. The vehicle's speed on a good road is from ten to twelve miles an hour. Mr. Peake obligingly gave his friends in this city a drive in the new carriage. George L. Hodgman operates a tool shop in the building adjoining the Taylor street bridge. He went to Northfield this morning on the nine o'clock train to deliver some tools he had finished. Dr. H. L. Watson received Monday the following telephone message from Dr. O. W. Daley, health officer at White River Junction: "In view of the false and exaggerated reports which have been circulated I would state that there is no case of small pox at White River Junction and no one has been exposed by a case in this vicinity. There is only one case in the remote part of the town, which came from Manchester, N. H. This is strictly quarantined and there is no more danger in attending the State fair this year than in former years."

There is one man in town who believes that the election of Mr. Sibley as Governor represents the dawn of the high license millennium at hand, and that when the "gentleman from Montpelier" takes his seat in the House in October the sun will set. He is in fact so seriously impressed with this fallacy that he is making inquiries as to whom he shall make application for a license for a saloon. There are others who are equally as foggy regarding this high license puzzle, and Mr. Sibley, to satisfy all the various camps of his host, is likely to find himself between the devil and the deep sea.

The ninety-third annual meeting of the Vermont Central Baptist Association will be held in Groton September 11 and 12. The meeting begins on Tuesday at 2:30 and continues through Wednesday evening. Davison, State Missionary, Rev. E. M. Fuller of Barre, Rev. F. Howard of Randolph and Rev. and Mrs. W. F. Beaman of China are also to give addresses.

Rev. J. Edward Wright gave his congregation an earnest and forcible sermon yesterday morning on the Gospels of John, picturing most eloquently some of the results in our national life of the fear of the money power and the deference of all parties and the people generally to its will. Mr. Wright depicted the subordination of the best interests of the people to the greed for power which money brings and the moral cowardice of the nation in words which most certainly have left a deep and lasting impression upon his hearers. Certainly such plain and wholesome truths deserve home, cannot be too often heard from the pulpit of the land.

As a result of numerous sessions of chancery court, recently held in Burlington by Chief Judge Taft, Thomas J. Murphy has been sentenced in Chittenden county court to pay a fine of $1,000 and to be imprisoned in the House of Correction for six months for contempt of court in violating the liquor injunction against the Sherwood house, in Burlington. Counsel for Murphy has instituted habeas corpus proceedings. In the case of A. E. Lemere, who was in jail in Burlington several weeks awaiting the decision of the court for violating the injunction against the drug store previously owned by Collins Bros., the respondent was sentenced to be confined in the county jail four months.

The annual convention of the State Teachers' Association will be held at Rutland on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 11, 12 and 13. Among the speakers already engaged are A. W. Edson, assistant superintendent of schools for New York city, Horace S. Farbell, superintendent of schools for Providence, R. I., and President Fannie of Brown University. Efforts are also being made to secure the following well known people: Dr. Mary Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke college, George H. Martin, one of the Boston superintendents of schools, and Hon. Wendell P. Stafford, the new judge of the Vermont Supreme court. One or two of these, perhaps all of them, will be secured for addresses on important topics during the three days.

Rev. C. O. Jenkins gave a decidedly interesting and instructive talk to a large congregation Sunday evening, and in his exemplification of what the churches in a year of the politicians furnished his hearers with much food for solid thought. He used Tuesday's election as an illustration of the value of steadfastness in standing by one's convictions and openly and unhesitatingly proclaiming them, as witnessed by Mr. Sibley's success, and also of the value of earnest individual effort, as shown by the system of getting out the voters. These practices, if extended from politics into the work for the extension of Christ's kingdom, would result in vast good. The address was one of much practical value in presenting a plain but not unadorned lesson of what can be accomplished by the churches.

Under the artistic instinct and touch of Dan Gupta, the old Pavilion coach has blossomed like a whole garden of roses. The old coach was in a perfect state of preservation with the exception of the felloes and a few spokes, and these have been renewed wherever necessary. The running part has been painted a straw color and the body a rich shade of darker color with fancy scroll-work and touches here and there. The iron rods around the top have been away to fancy nickel and chrome, a large chest or receptacle for travelling necessities is fixed on the trunk rack in the rear and a magnificent carbon light with an excellent light powerful reflector is affixed to each end of the driver's seat. The coach is practically completed, and will soon be dedicated. We are told that W. A. Stowell has chartered it for himself and a select party of invited guests and that a coaching trip will soon be undertaken, extending as far as Boston, via the White Mountains. That the voyage will be a delightful one for Mr. Stowell and those fortunate enough to be his guests may well be imagined.

Washington County Court.
Court re-convened at two o'clock this afternoon. In the case of Zilva W. Chase against Allen Alnoworth, trespass, judgment was entered for plaintiff as per agreement. Morris McKinstry against O. R. Collins and B. H. Lovell, is now on trial. The plaintiff resides in Woodbury. The claim is made that Mr. Collins while sheriff of the county, and Mr. Lovell, one of his deputies, in relieving certain property in possession of the plaintiff used unnecessary force with plaintiff's wife and that she received injuries from which she never recovered. Suit is brought for an assault. J. H. Senter and H. C. Shurtleff for plaintiff; J. P. Lamson for defendant.

SPECIAL CITY MEETING
The special city meeting held Saturday in Armory hall was a record breaker for quick work. It was in session just two minutes.

The meeting was called to order at nine o'clock by Mayor Brown and the call was read by Clerk Merrill. About two hundred legal voters were present.

The one article in the warning was to see if the legal voters would instruct Representative-elect A. J. Sibley to vote for a local option license law or to support the present prohibitory law. On motion of Alderman F. L. Loring, seconded by J. H. Senter, the article was dismissed, and on motion of Col. J. H. Lucia the meeting adjourned. The vote to dismiss the article was practically unanimous.

Old Newbury Seminary.
In 1834 the New Hampshire Conference, which included what is now the Vermont Conference, established a Methodist school at Newbury, known as Newbury Seminary. It was one of the best schools in New England and enjoyed remarkable prosperity, turning out some of the brightest men in the country. Among its alumni are such men as Judge Taft, Gov. Dillingham, Hon. George Nichols and Halsey B. Brown of Northfield, L. Bart Cross, Librarian Wood, Col. Smith and Col. A. C. Brown of this city, Cassius and Marcus Peck, Superintendent of Folsom, Judge Lathrop and Alex. Dunnett and a host of other well-known men.

Through the efforts of Hon. Horace W. Bailey students of the old institution have contributed funds for the erection of a memorial to perpetuate the old school and its principals, twelve in number. That window will be dedicated on Wednesday, September 19, at 1:30 p. m. The exercises will be held in the Methodist meeting house at Newbury village. The dedicatory sermon will be preached by Presiding Elder Sherburn, with an historical address by Horace W. Bailey, both alumni of the institution. Many old students will hold a reunion and take part in the exercises. It promises to be a pleasant event. The institution was removed to Montpelier in the fall of 1893, and is now known as Montpelier Seminary. Among the former principals of this school were such well known men as Bishop O. C. Baker, Rev. Jos. E. King, D. D., of Fort Edward, N. Y., Prof. Henry S. Noyes, Rev. Francis S. Hoyt, D. D., George Crosby Smith, for many years principal of Lasell Seminary, Rev. Charles W. Cushing, Rev. Silas E. Kimbly, Clark T. Hinman, D. D., Rev. F. E. King and Rev. S. F. Chester, who came from Newbury to Montpelier with the school. In 1884 the institution celebrated its fiftieth anniversary, many of the old students and principals participating. At that time an excursion was made to Newbury and the exercises were held in the old school building.
